Posted at: 28/06/2018

Highlights

- The wave of shaming that was unleashed in the wake of the appearance of the image of a breastfeeding woman on the cover of Grihalakshmi, a leading women's magazine in Malayalam, in March this year, seems to have finally been contained by the Kerala High Court's eloquent judgment.
- This judgment is especially significant for Kerala where social conservatism has historically stayed largely unchallenged and spread right across the political spectrum.
