Posted at: 05/01/2019

World Braille Day is marked annually on January 4 after the Day was proclaimed by the General Assembly last November, as a means of realising fully the human rights of visually-impaired and partially-sighted people, and bringing written language to the forefront as a critical prerequisite for promoting fundamental freedoms.

- World Braille Day is the birthday of Braille inventor, Louis Braille.
- This day recognizes the contributions of Louis Braille in helping blind and visually impaired people to read and write.
